Full of traditional English charm, The Queens Hotel in Southsea is a stunning venue on the south coast complete with sea views across the Solent and some of the best cuisine in Hampshire - using local produce.

What is now the 4-star Queens Hotel was originally known as Southsea House, built by the architect Augustus Livesay in 1861. A major refurbishment project has been underway to restore The Queens to her former glory. So far, £4.4m has been spent on updating the bedrooms, redesigning Dukes Bar and Restaurant 1865.

Features of the bedrooms include TV, free Wi-Fi, tea and coffee making facilities, desk and chair, telephone, premium toiletries, hairdryer and private en-suite bathroom. Some rooms also offer baths on request. All the newly refurbished superior large sea view rooms offer panoramic views of the Solent and a selection of rooms also have access to their own private or shared balcony. These rooms include a safe, mini fridge, iron and ironing board, desk and chair, TV, free Wi-Fi, tea and coffee making facilities, telephone, premium toiletries, hairdryer and en-suite bathroom.

We well recommend booking the Afternoon Tea Package with IOW Tours for arrival day - made to bring a bit of theatrical sparkle! Prepared and served fresh each day by the talented pastry chef team, the menu is a mix of the traditional combination of sweet and savoury. Focusing on local ingredients, the Queens Afternoon Tea Menu is updated seasonally and is truly sensational!

The hotel has parking (enter your Car Registration Number on arrival). There are lifts in the hotel but the hotel has stairs to reception - there is separate access for the mobility impaired.
